CAPT. AND MRS. HARLOW HOSTS AT GAY AFFAIR ON CALIFORNIA

The elaborate affair of the week, and Mrs. Kingsbury, Lieutenant in fact one of the most important of the season was the select dancing party given Christmas night on board the flagship California by Captain and Mrs. Harlow. The entertainment was the most beautiful function that has ever been witnessed in Honolulu. The favors and decorations came from New York and were very beautiful. The ship was decorated with hundreds of electric lights, shaded with fairy lamps. In the center of the quarter deck was a mammoth Christmas tree, beautifully decorated and brilliantly lighted with tiny electric light bulbs in all colors. The quarter deck was enclosed with palms and flags, and pennants. Even the gangway was enclosed with flags, the ropes on either side were interwoven with many colored electric lights. The canopy of flags were also outlined with colored electric lights. Near the head of the gangway was an electric fountain, filled with a dozen downy ducks that had been hatched the day before. The ducklings had evidently been trained, for they seemed to enjoy the party, as much as any one present, being busily engaged swimming in the commodious fountain. Captain and Mrs. Harlow received their guests in their usual cordial manner, and decorated each guest with an illuna lei, twined with maile. The latter looked stunning in a Paris crown of light blue satin, with an overdress of chiffon, trimmed in Venetian point lace. After the informal reception, dancing was participated in. Shortly before midnight, a cotillion figure was danced, toward the end of the figure, the guests formed in columns of four, the leader guiding them to the portion of the ship, where supper was served. As the four guests arrived, two sailors — came quickly forward and placed a table with chairs, and the four guests were seated. This was done until every one was seated for supper. The tables were ornamented with diminutive Santa Claus and Christmas trees. The trees were filled with horns, whistles, tin drums, in fact toys of every description. In a few minutes, pandemonium reigned—everyone was either blowing a whistle or horn, or beating a drum, etc. After the noise had somewhat subsided—the host with glass in hand proposed a toast, "To the dear ones at home—especially the sweethearts and wives, who had been left behind." This was drunk standing, and was finished by singing "And Lang Sang." The two hundred voices made the ship ring with cheer and good fellowship. After the elaborate supper, dancing was resumed and continued until a late hour. Among those present were:

Admiral and Mrs. Thomas, Governor Frear, Admiral and Mrs. Cowles, Admiral Southernland, Captain Halsead, Captain Bennett, Captain Elliott, Captain and Mrs. Gill, Commander Terhune, Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Williams, Captain and Mrs. Carter, Captain and Mrs. Marx, Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Wade, Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. B. ### Birthday Dinner at Country Club.

Among the prettiest entertainments of the season was the birthday dinner given in honor of Mrs. Helen Noonan at the Country Club, Wednesday evening. The pretty club house had been transformed by means of artistic and beautiful decorations. The portico, veranda, and entrance were hung with Japanese lanterns. The inside of the house was filled with Christmas berries, holly and poinsettias. The long table was arranged in the dining room. Over the archway, between the living room and hallway, was a lambrequin effect of pepper and feathery bamboo. The artistic stone fireplace was banked with potted palms, flowering poinsettias and maidenhair fern. From the side walls were hung fancy banners—varying in shape and size, some containing Christmas berries and others filled with graceful sprays of bamboo. Statues of smilax, artistically placed through the different rooms, contributed their share toward the artistic effect of the decorations. The color scheme throughout was scarlet and green. Through the center of the long dinner table were placed handsome cut glass bowls, containing double red carnations and maidenhair fern. Strands of smilax, streamers and butterfly bowknots, composed of ribbon chiffon, in a shade of pale green, were utilized in an unconventional design toward the ornamentation of the surface of the table. Colonial silver candlesticks, shaded with filigree shades of silver lined with red satin, were placed promiscuously around the table. From the center of the ceiling to the corners of the dining room were festooned long ropes of maile, thus producing a canopy effect over the dinner table. Suspended from the maile were lighted "fairy lamps" and oriental lanterns. The effect was so artistic that it defies description. During the dinner fancy bonbons were opened, containing fancy caps and musical instruments. The place cards were postal cards, ornamented with kodak views of Mr. and Mrs. Tenney's home on Pensacola street. On each card was written a limerick that was read by each guest, during the repast. Most of the rhymes were of a comical nature, and excited mirth and laughter. The dinner favors of red artificial roses, containing bouillons, were very pretty. During the dinner Kaul's orchestra played, and later for the dancing. Among those who enjoyed this delightful dinner party were Mrs. Helen Noonan, Lieut. Commander and Mrs. Long, Lieutenant and Mrs. Calhoun, Miss Anderson, Miss Wilhelmia Tenney, Miss Violet Makee, Miss Geraldine Neuman, Miss Rose Herbert, Miss Agnes Walker, Lieutenant Hodson, Lieutenant Pence, Paymaster Tobby, Lieutenant Cross, Doctor Vickery and Doctor Chambers.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson's Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Stevenson were host and hostess at a beautiful Christmas dinner that was given at their pretty home on Green street. The entertainment was given in honor of their guests, Mrs. Clonan, Miss Dolly Clonan and Miss Lettie Clonan, of Sydney, New South Wales, who are spending the winter with them. The house was handsomely decorated in holly, maile and Christmas berries. An elaborate dinner was served at half past six, at a round table prettily and artistically decorated in scarlet and green. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Stevenson, Mrs. Clonan, Miss Lettie Clonan, Miss Dolly Clonan, Mr. William Kinless and Mr. Phil B. Dancy. Following the dinner the party motored to points of interest about the city.

Unveiling of Xmas Tree.

One of the social functions of the week was the unveiling of the Christmas tree, on the U. S. S. Colorado. The officers of the ship were the hosts on this occasion. The function took place on Christmas Eve. The quarter deck was brilliantly lighted with innumerable electric lights. The entire deck was gaily decorated with signal flags and pennants. The quarter deck was enclosed with flags of all nations. Prior to the unveiling of the tree, there was an interesting moving picture show. Most of the slides were extremely funny and were the means of promoting much mirth and gaiety. During the performance, the deck was in semi-darkness. Shortly after eleven o'clock the ship's band played an enlivening air and with the withdrawal of a curtain, a mammoth Christmas tree, laden with tinsel, ornaments of all description and brilliantly lighted with candles, was displayed. There were "take offs" for the officers and the guests and Santa Claus was busy for an hour, calling the names and distributing the gifts. At midnight the band played an inspiring waltz and every one participated in the dancing, which was indulged in until the wee small hours. At twelve o'clock each one was engaged wishing their friends "A Merry Christmas." The novelty of the entertainment appealed to the many guests that were present—the general feeling being that the officers of the U. S. S. Colorado make admirable hosts. Following is a list of those who participated in the affair: Admiral and Mrs. Thomas, Admiral and Mrs. Walter Cowles, Captain and Mrs. Harlow, Lieut. Commander and Mrs. Chester Wells, Lieut. Commander and Mrs. Lang, Lieut. Commander and Mrs. Owens, Captain and Mrs. Gill, Lieut. Commander and Mrs. Williams, Lieut. and Mrs. Calhoun, Lieut. and Mrs. Rees, Lieut. and Mrs. Ghormley, Paymaster and Mrs. John Irwin, Bishop and Mrs. Henry Bond, Pastorick, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin Hepburn, Miss Edith Cowles, Lieut. and Mrs. Gayler, Lieut. and Mrs. Ross Kingsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shee, Dr. and Mrs. Harvey Murray, Mrs. Elizabeth Church, Miss Helen North, Miss Case, Mr. and Mrs. George Angus, Miss Jean Angus, Mr. and Mrs. James Sutton McCandless, Miss Myra Angus, Mr. and Mrs. Hocking, Miss Florence Hoffman, Miss Ethel Angus, Captain and Mrs. Arthur Marx, Lieut.

and Mrs. Wade, Lieut. and Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Wheeler, Miss Buckley, Miss Alice Cooper, Miss Katherine Stephens, Miss Lydia McStocker, Miss Irene Cooper, Miss B. Williams, Pay Inspector Hicks, Lieut. Wallace Berthoff, Ensign Horner, Ensign Gresham, Ensign Botsford, Ensign Waddell, Ensign Coman, Ensign Waddington, Ensign Baughman, Miss Gay, Miss Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, Admiral Southernland, the Captains and other officers of the Pacific fleet.

Mr. and Mrs. John Drew's Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Drew of San Francisco, who were the complimented guests at a dinner that was given Tuesday evening by their sister and brother, Mr. and Mrs. John Drew. The pretty home of the host and hostess was filled with scarlet poinsettias and tatted palms. Dinner was served at seven o'clock at a table tastefully decorated with the same variety of flowers. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Drew, Mr. and Mrs. Marston Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Drew.

Meeting of College Club.

About forty members of the College Club found time amid the activities of holiday week to meet at the Colonial on Tuesday afternoon. Not only did the social hour partake of the spirit of the season, but those present were unanimous in their appreciation of the special feature of the day, which was a charming story read by its author, a new resident of Honolulu. This author, Mrs. Agce, is a young writer whose stories under her pen name, Fannie Headup Lee, have been published in prominent magazines of the United States during the last three or four years. She also brought out "Quickhands" last spring and has another look under way to be published soon. With her husband, Mr. H. P. Agce of the Hawaiian Planters' Association, Mrs. Agce came from Louisiana a few months ago, and they are now making their home in Honolulu. Social and intellectual circles are fortunate in this new acquisition.

Mr. Lyall's Dinner.

Mr. Jack Lyall was host at a jolly dinner party on Tuesday evening at the Colonial in honor of Mrs. W. H. Hissman of Hilo. The table decorations, which were in the capable hands of Miss Johnson, were exceedingly pretty, being carried out in red and green. A large basket filled with red poinsettias and maidenhair fern, with a huge box of red ribbon artistically tied on the handle, made a striking centerpiece, while red poinsettias scattered over the damask cloth, made the table very attractive. Dainty red baskets with a sprig of holly berries on the handles, were used as favors, and the place cards were painted with holly berries. White roses were found at each guest's cover. Those present were Mrs. W. H. Hissman, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Gray, Miss Anabelle Low, Miss Emma Lyons, Mr. E. Schenkel, Mr. Percy Deverill and Mr. Lyall. After dinner the evening was given over to music.

Mrs. George Angus' Luncheon.

Mrs. George Hubbard Angus is entertaining today with a luncheon in honor of Miss Ethel Angus, whose engagement to Mr. John Howard Ellis is announced this afternoon in the society column of this paper. The luncheon was one of the prettiest of the season. In the center of the table was a fancy oblong basket filled with yellow cornucopia and Australian maidenhair fern. Streamers of yellow and burnt sienna, combined with the flowers, produced a beautiful decoration. The place cards were adorned with diminutive Cupids, carrying out the pre-nuptial idea. Among Mrs. George Angus' guests are Miss Armstrong, Mrs. Clifford B. High, Miss Helen Girvin, Miss Ethel Angus, Miss Belle McCriston, Miss Myra Angus, Miss Mollie Grace, Miss Jean Angus, Miss Florence Hoffman and Miss Harriet Young.

Admiral and Mrs. Cowles Entertain.

None of the Christmas Eve parties were more enjoyable than the party given by Admiral and Mrs. Cowles on the evening of December the twenty-fourth. The Admiral's home was gayly decorated in holly, Christmas berries and smilax. One of the chief features of the evening's entertainment was a Christmas tree, laden with gifts for every one. The tree was decorated with tinsel, ornaments of every description, and brilliantly lighted with candles. After the distribution of the gifts the party adjourned to the dining room, where a delicious collation was served. The dining room was handsomely decorated in scarlet and green. Among Admiral and Mrs. Walter Cowles and Miss Cowles' guests were General and Mrs. Montgomery Macomb, Major and Mrs. Neville, Captain and Mrs. Clifton Carroll, Mrs. Frederick William Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. L. Tenney Peck, Judge and Mrs. Selden Kingsbury of Maui, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McStocker, Lieutenant and Mrs. Gayler, Lieutenant and Mrs. Ross Kingsbury, Lieutenant and Mrs. Roy Francis Smith, Mrs. Locke, Lieutenant and Mrs. Pratt, Lieutenant and Mrs. Gerald Johnson, Mrs. Rockwell and Miss Rockwell, Lieutenant Sahm, Lieutenant Andrews and others.

Mrs. E. D. Baldwin's Luncheon.

Mrs. E. D. Baldwin entertained Friday afternoon at luncheon in honor of Mrs. Wetherell and Mrs. Merrill. The two charming women are planning to spend the winter at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel. They are charmed with the beauties of Hawaii.

Mrs. Stanley's Luncheon.

A coterie of friends enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Stanley, when she entertained at luncheon Friday afternoon. Covers were laid for eight. The beautiful place cards were of an Oriental character, having been purchased during Judge and Mrs. Stanley's trip in Japan. Quantities of Shasta daisies ornamented the table, the flowers being artistically arranged in a silver basket. On this occasion Mrs. Clay of Berkeley, Cal., was the guest of honor. Those seated around the flower-bedecked table were Mrs. Stanley, Lady Heron, Mrs. Clay, Mrs. Walter Francis Dillingham, Mrs. L. Tenney Peck, Mrs. Selden Kingsbury of Maui, Mrs. Newton Locke and James Wilder.

Wednesday Bridge Club.

Mrs. Brown, wife of Colonel Brown, U. S. A., will entertain the Wednesday Bridge Club on January the third at Mrs. Turner's home, who is daughter of Mrs. Brown.

Officers on U. S. S. Maryland to Entertain.

The watch party that is to be given on board the U. S. S. Maryland is being anticipated by the Honolulu society folk that have been invited. Elaborate preparations are being made by the prospective hosts.

Mrs. Helen Noonan's Luncheon.

On New Year's Day, Mrs. Helen Noonan will entertain ten guests at luncheon at the Oahu Country Club. The table will be arranged under a large marquee on the lawn. After luncheon the hostess and her guests will participate in the reception and dance that are to be given at that afternoon by the club members.

General and Mrs. Macomb's Dinner.

General and Mrs. Montgomery Macomb have issued cards for a dinner that is to be given on Thursday evening, January the fourteenth. The dinner will be given at their home on Beretania avenue. Captain and Mrs. Harlow will be the guests of honor.

Dinner on Board U. S. S. California.

The wardroom officers of the U. S. S. California are planning an elaborate dinner that is to be given on Tuesday evening, January the second. Covers will be laid for thirty. After dinner the party will motor to the Moana Hotel, where they will participate in the officers' ball that is to be given at the Moana Hotel.

Miss Ethel Bishop's Luncheon.

Miss Ethel Bishop entertained eleven of her friends at a luncheon that was given Thursday afternoon at the Country Club. A profusion of scarlet carnations adorned the table, combined with maidenhair fern. The place cards represented Japanese Torii, arranged on standards. The handsomely hand-painted favors were greatly admired. Among Miss Ethel Bishop's guests were Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. Harold Giffard, Miss Jessie Kennedy, Miss Florence Hoffman, Mrs. Harold Castle, Mrs. Alfred Castle, Mrs. Gustav Schaefer, Miss Beatrice Holsworth, Miss Esther Kopke and Miss Edith Williams.
